

All-powerful Is He

Creator of all . . . Truly so,
All-powerful indeed is He;
He dispensed His Truth from Heaven
So that in our hearts it would be.

The Creator of vast heavens
Seen, unseen . . . All things that can be,
He Himself came to bring His Love
To all beings, the likes of me.

Indeed, the oceans raced to Him;
Their waves move in metered flow.
Unseen mysteries showed themselves
As the sun flamed in endless glow.

Billions of stars cast twinkling lights
Against a darkness ever deep;
A moon beamed its silvery stream
Caressing all things in His Keep.

The world bowed to His Words of Truth,
Embracing his Order of things;
Both man and beast accepted Him . . .
'All-powerful He!' each now sings.

Henry W. Gurley